This section of GB 6675 specifies the types of flammable materials that are prohibited on all toys and the flammability requirements of some toys that may be exposed to small fire sources. The test method described in Chapter 5 of this section is applicable to testing the flammability performance of toys or materials under certain test conditions, and the test results cannot be used to determine that these toys or materials are completely free of potential fire hazards when approaching other sources of ignition. This section includes general requirements relating to flammability of all toys and specific requirements and testing methods for the following toys considered to be the most flammable of the following: —Headwear toys: whiskers, vibrissae, wigs, etc. are made of hair, villi, or similar materials; molds and fabric masks; headscarves, headwear ornaments; headwear flutters on toys, but do not include paper flowers usually provided in gift boxes Hat; —Toy make-up clothing and toys for children's performance; —Toys for children; —Filled soft toy animals (animals and dolls, etc.) with plush or woven fabric.

South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy. The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and, to a much lesser extent, Afrikaans, but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages. Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools, which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools. The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students, not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully. The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience.

The book also provides Essays divided topic-wise from 1993-2016. The strength of the book lies in the Errorless DETAILED Solutions. The book is 100% useful for both the General Studies papers (1 and 2) of the Prelims/ CSAT.

The 8th International Conference on Physical Modelling in Geotechnics (ICPMG2014) was organised by the Centre for Offshore Foundation Systems at the University of Western Australia under the auspices of the Technical Committee 104 for Physical Modelling in Geotechnics of the International Society of Soil Mechanics and Geotechnical Engineering. This quadrennial conference is the traditional focal point for the physical modelling community of academics, scientists and engineers to present and exchange the latest developments on a wide range of physical modelling aspects associated with geotechnical engineering. These proceedings, together with the seven previous proceedings dating from 1988, present an inestimable collection of the technical and scientific developments and breakthroughs established over the last 25 years. These proceedings include 10 keynote lectures from scientific leaders within the physical modelling community and 160 peer-reviewed papers from 26 countries. They are organised in 14 themes, presenting the latest developments in physical modelling technology, modelling techniques and sensors, through a wide range of soil-structure interaction problems, including shallow and deep foundations, offshore geotechnics, dams and embankments, excavations and retaining structures and slope stability. Fundamental aspects of earthquake engineering, geohazards, ground reinforcements and improvements, and soil properties and behaviour are also covered, demonstrating the increasing complexity of modelling arising from state-of-the-art technological developments and increased understanding of similitude principles. A special theme on education presents the latest developments in the use of physical modelling techniques for instructing undergraduate and postgraduate students in geotechnical engineering.
