For the employed physician, the most common names for those are 401 (k) and 403 (b). There could also be a 401 (a) in there, as well, which is often used for matching or profit sharing. The 401 (k) and 403 (b) are similar in many ways; the latter is used by governmental institutions such as a University-affiliated academic medical center.

For doctors looking to get started with investing in multifamily residential properties. Cory owns a few of these (64 rental units in 5 apartment complexes), so he can give us a really good primer on how to make a deal and manage these properties. My 4 year old also took an interest in the book and asked me to read it to him at night.
