IIRC, Tobira gets you through most of n3 and kind of barely broaches into n2 with some of it's gramar points. After that if you still really feel the need for more textbook learning there's New Authentic Japanese: Progressing From Intermediate to Advanced. I think after Tobira is when one should relay start diving into native material though.

Is anyone here familiar enough with the "Tobira: Gateway to Advanced Japanese" textbook and the JLPT to have a sense for what level it's at? I've signed up to take N2 in December, and my class will have taken me through the entire book by then. I'm just wondering, mostly grammar-wise, how much more I have to learn after that to be prepared for ...
